

Conrod Kelly is an award-winning marketer and industry leader, as well as a published author and sought-after speaker. Conrod's tenure at Merck includes commercial leadership of the Diabetes, Anesthesia, Surgery, and Alzheimer's Franchises. He is currently serving as Merck's first Executive Director of Social Determinants and Population Health, working towards making healthcare more equitable, improving patient and population health outcomes, and driving sustainable business and societal value. Prior to joining Merck, Conrod held roles in sales and marketing at Johnson & Johnson and GlaxoSmithKline.

In 2020, Conrod was recognized by MM&M's inaugural 40 Under 40 in Healthcare. His work on the film A Touch of Sugar was a finalist for 33 industry awards and winner of 15. He also received the UN SDG Media Award and Top Black in Healthcare Award from the Milken Institute School of Public Health.

Conrod serves on the SDOH Taskforce and the Global Futures Council at the World Economic Forum. He received his MBA and BS from Florida A & M University and has continued his executive education at The Wharton School at UPenn and Duke University.