

Nandika Madgavkar
Head of the CEO Investor Forum
Chief Executives for Corporate Purpose

As Senior Director and Head of CECP's CEO Investor Forum, Nandika Madgavkar leads a team focused on CEO Engagement, Investor Relations, Sustainable Finance, Research and Thought-Leadership. Nandika is responsible for forging new and deepening current relationships within CECP's network of partners, while engaging CEOs and investors in rewiring the capital markets towards the long-term. The CEO Investor Forum is an influential voice in promoting purpose-driven, long-term sustainable value creation with a focus on the S&P500.

Nandika also leads CECP's internal Diversity, Equity and Inclusion efforts which includes providing strategic guidance and implementing policies and practices to best serve the organization.

Nandika has extensive experience building CSR strategies, crisis and reputation management, advocacy engagement and communications and marketing having worked most recently for MetLife and Citigroup. Her background and training as a journalist have facilitated an ability to observe, listen and ask questions that engage and motivate leaders and employees across companies to act towards positive change.

Nandika served on the board of the United Neighborhood Houses of New York City, and was Executive Advisor to the Global Multicultural Professionals Network at MetLife. She is passionate about gender issues and human rights.

Nandika received her Bachelor of Arts in History and Master of Arts in Political Science from Delhi University, India.